Casey County man indicted for murder

By Larry Rowell
Editor

A Liberty man has been indicted on murder and other charges for his role in crashing a vehicle while intoxicated that took the life of another man.

A Casey County grand jury indicted Clifton W.

Hale, 54, of 261 Phillips St., on June 16 on a charge of murder, second offense DUI, and first-degree first offense possession of a controlled substance, meth.

Kentucky State Police Trooper Chris Saunders investigated the collision that occurred on Dec. 20, two miles north of Liberty on U.S. 127.

Hale, driving a 2011 Nissan, was traveling south on U.S. 127 when the car dropped off the roadway. Hale was unable to regain control, crossed a creek, and struck a tree.

A passenger, 83-year-old Jesse Monday, of Liberty, was taken to Casey County Hospital where he was pronounced dead.

Hale was transported to Ephraim McDowell Hospital in Danville where he was treated for non-life threatening injuries and released.

Hale was also arrested in Liberty on April 13, 2012 by Lt. Ronnie Smith and Officer Kerry Patten and charged with first offense DUI.

Court records indicate that Hale was involved in a single vehicle collision striking a road sign on Gritton Street. He admitted to officers that he was drinking alcoholic beverages.

■ 21st Century Community Learning Center Summer Camp

Casey County's 21st Century Community Learning Center summer camps are in full force with the third week of activities beginning Monday with Camp Invention Morphed, where students work in teams to conduct investigations, experiments and engineering challenges. ABOVE, third-grade student Aiden Cheatham and Sierra Feltner, a freshman at Casey County High School, act as the sound carriers during Camp Inventions, "Bionic Ear," experiment on Tuesday. Seventh- and eighth-grade students and camp counselors from grades 8-12 gathered outside to enact the workings of the human ear using props. With the guidance of CCMS science teacher Angel Woodrum, students each played a different role of the human ear. RIGHT, Camp Counselors, CCHS freshmen Emily Tarter and junior Callie C. Bernard act as the "ear drum" during the "Bionic Ear" experiment.

Burglaries, theft under investigation

By Larry Rowell

Authorities are looking to solve three burglaries and another theft that have occurred in the past three weeks.

■ Sheriff Jerry Coffman said that Eli Yoder, of 1749 Matherly Road, Liberty, reported on June 13 that someone stole 11 rolls of woven wire — 2 feet by 4 feet by 5 feet tall — from an outbuilding on his property at 5370 South Fork Creek Road. The value of the wire is $1,980.

■ On Sunday, Jorge Hernandez, of 733 Bastin Creek Road, Kings Mountain, told Deputy Jordan Buis that someone broke into his home on Saturday between 1 p.m. and Sunday at 5 p.m.

Missing was a Smith and Wesson Model 659 9mm handgun, jewelry, a laptop computer, a dresser drawer, and a comforter. A full list of items is pending.

Entrance was made by cutting a screen on the window on the back patio and then kicking in the exterior door from the garage to the inside of the house.

■ In another incident, Deputy Chad G. Weddle is investigating a burglary on June 18 at the home of Eli Wesley, of 1214 Poplar Hill Road, in Liberty.

Brett Simpson checked the home on June 15 and said there was no sign of anything out of order.

However, on Tuesday night, June 17, a neighbor spotted flashlights around the Wesley home.

Thieves forced open the back door, causing $1,450 in damages to it and the frame.

Items taken from the home, valued at $2,500, include a Gucci suit, Parker cross bow, arrows, tips, and targets, Nikon binoculars, a 42 inch Samsung TV, an X-box video game system, and a cap collection — Eli Wesley Trucking Company, a 2004 George Bush and a burley tobacco co-op, among others.

A syringe, found in the hallway of the home, has been sent to the KSP lab for analysis.

■ In the fourth burglary, Norma Blevins, of 3798 Dry Ridge Road, reported that thieves broke into her home on June 18 by breaking the glass in the back patio door.

Ransacking the house, thieves left cabinet and closet doors open and drawers pulled out with the contents strewn about the

Tales from the homefront

Editor's Note: This is the second of a multi-part series of stories about local World War II veterans and their families.

By Larry Rowell

With the United States just beginning to emerge from the devastating depression which began in October 1929, entering a world war against Germany and Japan scarcely a decade later would test the very fabric of society for Americans and their families.

The war years at home from 1941-1945 found young brides having to cope with husbands who were fighting on the battlefields of Europe or the seas and islands of the south Pacific. The worries for their loved ones as well as the challenges of day-to-day living presented additional stress.

That was life for Frankie Marie Bastin, who, barely out of her teens, married the love of her life on June 15, 1944, a love that she and Virgil still share 70 years later.

For Marie, growing up in Middleburg just several hundred yards from where she now lives with Virgil in a comfortable brick ranch shaded by large trees, life, back then, as it is now, is what you make it.

She said she didn't realize how poor everyone was during the depression years because every member of the family worked together to make ends meet.

"Nobody ever fussed about how hard it was at home. Mama had a milk cow and chickens for milk, butter, and eggs. The only cash money we had was daddy would sell a calf once a year and mama would sell eggs and chickens. But we had everything we needed," she said.

Courting days

Little did she know in the fall of 1943 that a handsome Lincoln County farm boy with a winsome smile would steal her heart.

"We were at a going away party for C. M. Delk in the Needmore community in Casey County. Virgil was with a group of boys who stood outside the door to the room where the young people were. I saw him across the room," she said, smiling. Going away parties were thrown for boys headed into the armed ser-

Fourth of July celebration needed

There's no more momentous occasion on the summer calendar than celebrating the birthday of our great nation.

The July 4 holiday should be about parades, picnics, games, and, of course, fireworks — a fun and happy occasion for the entire family.

It's amazing how the people and organizations in surrounding counties make a big deal about this special day.

Not so much in Liberty.

This year, no parade, no watermelon or ice cream eating contests, vendors, no ceremony striking the Liberty bell in honor of the 238th anniversary of America.

The only events scheduled are a 5K race that morning, and fireworks that evening at the Central Kentucky AG/EXPO Center.

While we appreciate the fireworks, it would have been nice to have had some downtown events during the morning hours.

It's easy to blame Chamber of Commerce Director Blaine Staat for the lack of any events.

However, we have to give Staat a pat on the back because several months ago, he tried to organize a committee to plan July 4 events. He couldn't find enough willing volunteers for a game of cornhole.

What about the mayor or city councilmen? Blame them, complain about those guys? After all, this event should be held in downtown Liberty.

If you really want to know where to place the blame, look no further than the nearest mirror.

To complain that there's nothing to do in Casey County is to say that "I'm not going to get involved to help organize any event, any time."

And nothing will change with nothing to do in Casey County.

Editor's Note: At press time on Tuesday, the Liberty City Council had placed this topic on the agenda for Tuesday night's special-called meeting. Should events be planned for July 4, look for coverage in the July 2 edition.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

As near record (if not record) cold gripped much of the nation this past winter, it is beyond belief and common sense to hear/watch left wing liberals spin the reason for it as "global warming." If it weren't so serious it would be hilarious.

The reason I say serious is because I think this is a perfect example of the left's thinking and their policies in general are so wrong, destructive and off the mark, that they are destroying the very foundations upon which this country was built. Therefore, it is imperative that the left wing liberal politicians who are busy destroying our country be defeated in the future elections and removed from any office they hold. They are demonstrating that they aren't fit or qualified to govern a free country. Therefore, control of it must be wrestled from them before it is too late to save our freedom and our way of life as we've known it since the founding of it.

The left's policies hurt the very people they claim they are so compassionate and caring about. Of course, the only thing they care about is their vote and dictatorial control. When will the liberal supporters catch on to that? The left wing Democrats simply use them to solidify their power and control. Those who continue to support such politicians are aiding and abetting the "fundamental transformation" and destruction of our country's system of democracy and freedom.

I wonder whether the supporters of such liberalism actually realize or know what a Marxist or Communist controlled government is like as that is where the current crowd in Washington D.C. is taking our country. If not, they need to look no further than North Korea, Cuba and China. Do they ever read a newspaper, listen to the daily news, or care about anything except sports, concerts, movies, music? Not that these things are necessarily wrong, but people need to know what is going on in politics and our government, be concerned, and care about what is happening to our country.

Calculating the cost of raising kids

Larry ROWELL
Editor

the cost of raising those kids. Even with state help, it won't be enough, without a hefty annual family income. Consider the editorial from our sister paper in Bardstown.

"It takes two people to reproduce. Because of this, even if you don't subscribe to the belief that it takes a village to raise a child, at the very least, two people are responsible when a life is created. Raising a child and the inherent responsibility that comes with children are completely different things. While a parent can escape raising a child in various ways, he or she should not try to avoid fiscal responsibility. This was displayed in Sunday's edition of The Kentucky Standard, where the Child Support Division of the County Attorney's Office took out a full-page ad listing the names of non-custodial parents who have fallen behind on their child support payments and can't be found by authorities. While money certainly isn't the only factor in raising a child, it's a huge part of parenting, and to the single parent or the grandparents left to make sure a child's needs are met, child support can mean having food on the table and clothes in the closet. In today's world, it will cost an estimated $241,080 for a middle-income couple to raise a child born in 2012, according to a U.S. Department of Agriculture report. And that's only for the first 18 years. It doesn't include college, which adds an estimated $10,000 a year at an in-state, public school, or $20,000 to $30,000 for private or out-of-state. And those figures are all numbers that change frequently as costs of living increase. We've all heard it before, and it's true: If you are mature enough to make a baby, you should be mature enough to handle the responsibilities it brings, whether that means finishing your education, finding or keeping employment, or being able to prioritize and put the needs of your child above your own wants. And that's all the same even if you choose not to be that child's guardian. It is not just mothers who struggle. While we like to think that talk of child support is targeted at a subgroup society likes to refer to as "deadbeat dads," and that single mothers are the norm in one-parent households, ever-increasing numbers of single fathers are raising children and custodial grandparents are stepping in when both parents are out of the picture. In Nelson County, the offender who owes the most back child support is a woman. And the list isn't race or age-specific. Race, age and gender are irrelevant. What's important is assuring that our children are taken care of, no matter who is providing that care. As a parent, regardless of the level of involvement you have in the child-rearing process, you are financially responsible for the life you created. Period.

Bring back the movie stores

Abigail WHITEHOUSE
Staff Writer

as, "The Jerk."

Instead of staring at a computer screen (which I do all day) and scrolling through lists of movies that have no relevancy to my taste whatsoever, I used to have the luxury of WALKING through genres and time periods of film.

When my older sister, Sarah, and I were young and on a fairly short leash, we would ride our bicycles about two miles down the road (which seemed like 10 at the time) to the closest Blockbuster store. On the way we would race each other up and down the winding neighborhood roads and occasionally stop for a drink out of Sarah's water bottle.

Movie stores were a special alone-time venue for me as well. During my KPA internship last summer, when I was relocated to a town that I had never stepped foot in and knew a total of zero people, the movie store became my best friend.

For the first two weeks, I made regular trips to rent movies and even established a first-name-basis friendship with one of the girls that worked at the rental store. She helped me out with recommendations several times, during my intense episodes of indecisiveness.

Look, I understand the whole idea of convenience — renting a movie from the comfort of your home, not having to change out of your pajamas, or engage in small talk when you're really not in the mood — I get ALL of that.

But this is one thing that I was never ready to give up.

And now, I can't find movie stores anywhere. Instead, I have to stare at yet another screen to pick out a movie and normally that experience includes a stranger invading my personal space, breathing loudly, and hovering over me while I panic in a rush to make a quick movie decision.

"But it's only $1," yeah, yeah. But for an extra dollar, I could choose my own movie, at my own pace, without some stranger's hot breath on the back of my neck.

BBB. Bring Blockbuster Back. End rant.

Yosemite most conservative town in Kentucky

By Larry Rowell
Editor

Data from a company that analyzes political research has determined that residents in a small community in Casey County hold the most conservative views in the Commonwealth.

Clarity Campaign Labs collected the data for Business Insider, an online site “dedicated to aggregating, reporting, and analyzing the top news stories across the web and delivering them to you at rapid-fire pace,” its Web site states.

Clarity Campaign Labs analyzed users’ political views based on seven identifiers and asked them whether they applied:

- I identify with the Democrats more so than the Republicans.

- Abortion should be legal and accessible to all women.
- I attend religious services regularly.
- Climate change is an immediate concern that must be addressed.
- There should be more restrictions on purchasing and carrying guns.
- The government should reduce the deficit primarily by raising taxes rather than cutting services.

- I prefer urban areas.

Anyone who agreed with the above statements was considered liberal. The questions about urban areas and church attendance were not included in the results used to indicate whether a community was liberal or conservative, the Web site states.

Denny Johnson, manager at Southern States, a farmer and long time Yosemite resident, said he’s not surprised that Yosemite carries a conservative brand.

“Most of the people who live here are farmers and are conservative. Plus, we’re all a bunch of tightwads,” he said, laughing.

The poll determined that of the residents queried, only 16.4 percent were Democrats, 29.2 percent were pro-choice when it comes to abortion, 56.7 percent were religious, 12.5 percent were pro-environment, 20.1 percent favored gun control, and 31.6 percent were pro-tax.

And the most liberal city in Kentucky? Louisville.

Casey County Hospital wins 2010 lawsuit

By Larry Rowell
Editor

A lawsuit filed against Casey County Hospital that’s been in Casey Circuit Court for almost four years has been settled in favor of the hospital.

Jurors in the case of Judy K. Smith vs. Casey County Hospital determined on June

6 that the hospital, in its treatment of Smith, exercised “that degree of care and skill ordinarily exercised by a reasonably competent hospital acting under the same or similar circumstances as those in this case.”

Had the jury found in favor of Smith, they were being asked to award up to $457,972 for medical expenses, and up to $2 million for her pain and suffering.

In the complaint filed on Aug. 3, 2010, Smith states that she was a patient at CCH from Aug. 7 to Aug. 9, 2010.

Initially admitted to the hospital with complaints of chest pain associated with nausea, Smith ended up having her right arm amputated in another hospital.

Rusty Tungate, CCH’s CEO, said that CCH was not liable for the expected damages because of preparing Smith to be transferred.

“It was my understanding that we got her ready to be transferred,” Tungate said.

The hospital’s legal fees were $10,000, the deductible on its liability insurance policy, Tungate said.

CORRECTIONS & CLARIFICATIONS

A call listed in last week’s Street Beat reported that a welfare check was made at the residence of Ray Weddle. According to Weddle, the welfare check was made at his home but had nothing to do with him.

In the June 18 paper, the article about the planning and zoning commission meeting on the front page stated that Rhonda Grider and Randall Meece — current owners of the Tarter house — were the grandchildren of Artise and Hope Tarter. They are Hope Tarter’s grandchildren.

Tales

Young people in those days got together and since there was no radio or stereos on which to play music, they played “spin the bottle,” Marie said.

Spin the bottle involved boys and girls getting in a circle and placing a pop bottle in the middle. A boy would spin it and wherever it stopped and if the neck pointed to a girl, a kiss was offered.

Although they didn’t speak, or kiss, that night, it was William Thompson, Virgil’s friend who lived in Middleburg, who did a little match making to get them together.

“Not long after that that same fall, I was at school at Middleburg when William came by after school was out. He and his daddy, with Virgil and his daddy, were all cutting hay. William brought the truck to Middleburg to buy cold sodas and cakes at Ock (Oscar) Elliott’s store. He picked me up and took me out to where they was cutting hay,” she said. A romance was born.

After that, Virgil would find gasoline rationing stamps to get five gallons of fuel to put in his brother’s 1934 Pontiac convertible coupe so that he and Marie, along with another couple, could go to Stanford to the “picture show,” mostly westerns starring Roy Rogers and Dale Evans.

When Virgil and Marie decided to marry in June 1944 while he was home from Navy bootcamp and before becoming a crew member on the USS Lycoming in Seattle, that too presented certain difficulties.

we got to the Baptist church, the preacher wasn’t there. So, we came back to the Methodist church and that preacher wasn’t home.

Virgil said, ‘We’ll go to New Salem (about eight miles from Middleburg) to the Baptist church.’ That preacher wasn’t there,” she said laughing.

Virgil and Marie finally found an old, retired preacher at McKinney, the same preacher who married Marie’s mother and daddy many years before.

Legally and spiritually joined in holy matrimony, Virgil would soon be off to war.

West coast

Fireman First Class Virgil M. Bastin left for Seattle in late summer of 1944 where he boarded the newly commissioned USS Lycoming.

While the crew tested the troop transport ship in the waters off Puget Sound, Virgil sent for Marie to join him in Seattle.

Marie said that during Virgil’s service on the Lycoming during 1944 and 1945, she made three trips to the Seattle area to stay with him.

Cross country travel took days and was mostly restricted to a seat on a train.

In the fall of 1944, Marie, a young, slim waisted, and pretty brunette, was about to take a three day train ride to see her husband before he shipped out.

“On Halloween night, daddy and mama, along with my half-brother and his wife, took me to Danville to the railroad station. They were as worried as much as I was scared, with me having only been out of Middleburg one time to go to Danville,” she said.

The ticket agent in Danville told Marie’s daddy that he’d never written a ticket for a destination that far away.

“The way he routed me was terrible. I had to get off the train several times and onto others to get there,” she said.

Arriving in Seattle, Virgil and Marie found a room in a boarding house that was owned by the Fergusons, a Canadian couple.

In addition to getting a room for $10 a week, Marie was adopted by the childless couple while she was in their home.

“They took us under their wings and cared for me like I was their child,” she said.

Marie found that as a country girl living in the big city of Seattle, she would see and experience things that were out of her comfort zone.

Finding a preacher

The state required that couples getting married pass a blood test to show the absence of sexually transmitted diseases.

“We had to go to Danville to Ephraim McDowell hospital for that. And then we had to get a marriage license which we tried to get in Lincoln County. But because I was underage, the county clerk in Lincoln County said I would have to have a parent sign for me in the county where I lived,” Marie said.

Cars and road conditions were vastly poorer then than they are today. It often took up to two hours to drive 35 miles, and with the war going on and the scarcity of new tires, tires on cars were often bald and went flat, prolonging a trip.

Marie’s mother went with the couple to Liberty where they got the license. With blood tests completed and license in hand, and with the blessing of parents, now was the time to find a preacher.

Unlike today’s elaborate weddings planned up to a year in advance, couples in the 1940s often decided on the spur of the moment to get hitched.

“We thought we’d get married in Middleburg but when

“That was another thing I had to adjust to, all those different people. Mrs. Ferguson gave me a good talking to. She told me to be careful not to offend anybody. She told me about a lady from the south who was put off the bus because she got up when a colored man sat down next to her,” she said.

Marie had to face and conquer an emotion she had not known growing up with family in Middleburg — fear.

“I was afraid of all them people. I had never saw nobody but white people other than a family or two up on Indian Creek that was colored. And they was nice people,” she said.

Not only did she see different races of people, Marie saw showgirls on the bus in their brightly colored costumes, wearing plumes and feathers, on their way to work.

One time when Virgil was on the ship just hours before departing port, Marie decided she was going to see him. That resolve to see Virgil defeated her fear of walking across a vast and dark section of shipyard toward the port where the Lycoming was docked.

With a building between her and the port, she opened the door and encountered a Navy officer who she said was covered in gold braid. The officer asked why she was in a restricted area.

Marie explained she wanted to see her husband before his ship departed. The officer, she said, was very nice and called the ship and arranged the meeting, which didn’t last long.

“I was glad to see him but then I had to walk back across that dark shipyard to get on the bus to Mrs. Ferguson’s place,” Marie said. “But I made it.”

War over

The third and last time Marie visited Virgil in Seattle in 1945, the war was over and the couple was ready to return to Kentucky and begin life anew in Middleburg.

Charlotte, their daughter, was born in December of 1946. Living in the upstairs part of the house where Marie grew up, there was no refrigerator because of the unavailability of the appliances after the war.

Having to bottle feed a new born without refrigeration was another challenge. But compared to traveling cross country three times to live in Seattle, this was just everyday living to Marie. “I would put the baby bottles in the window shaded by a Maple tree, and it was just fine,” she said.

Two other children came along and added to them are seven grandchildren, and 12 great-grandchildren.

At 88, she and Virgil have retired and are living their final years together in a world that might be as scary as the one she confronted in 1944.

Never having owned a credit card, the couple find it difficult some days to obtain services such as cable or satellite TV for their home. “I ain’t never had a credit or debit card and I don’t want one. I write a check and pay for what I want,” said Virgil, adding that their children and in-laws help them navigate the maze of dealing with TV and insurance companies on the telephone.

Still, life has been good for Virgil and Marie. And she knows why, after all these years.

“The good Lord was always watching over us,” she said.

rooms, including leaving the refrigerator door open.

A list of the stolen items is still pending, Deputy Jordan Buis stated in a report.

Blevins found an empty diaper box in the bedroom which Buis said the thieves probably brought in to carry out stolen items. The box and another item possibly touched by the thieves have been sent to the lab for fingerprint analysis.

SAVVY SENIOR

How to make an online memorial for a departed loved one

Dear Savvy Senior,

What can you tell me about online memorials? My uncle recently passed away, and some of the family thought it would be neat to create an online memorial to pay tribute to him, and accommodate the many family and friends who are scattered around the country who couldn't attend his funeral.

Grieving Niece

Dear Grieving,

It's a great idea! Online memorials have become increasingly popular over the past decade, as millions of people have created them for their departed loved ones as a way to recognize and remember them.

Online Memorials?

An online memorial is a website created for a deceased person that provides a central location where their family and friends can visit to share stories, fond memories, photographs, comfort one another and grieve. The memorial can remain online for life (or a specific period of time) allowing people to visit and contribute any time in the privacy of their own space.

Online memorials started popping up on the Internet in the late 1990s, but were created primarily for people who were well known. But now, these sites are for anyone who wants to pay tribute to their departed family member or friend, and ensure they will be remembered.

Content typically posted on an online memorial includes a biography, pictures, stories from family and friends, timelines of key events in their life, along with favorite music and even videos.

Another common feature is the acceptance of thoughts or candles offered by visitors to the site who want to send their condolences and support to the grieving party.

An online memorial can also direct visitors to the departed person's favorite charity or cause to make a donation, as an alternative to sending funeral flowers.

How To Make One

To make an online memorial, you can either create an independent website, or use an established memorial site, which is what most people choose to do. Memorial websites are very easy to create and personalize, and can be done in less than 30 minutes.

There are literally dozens of these types of sites on the Internet today. To locate them, do an online search for "Online Memorial Websites." In the meantime, here are a few good sites to check into.
The biggest and most established site in the industry is Legacy.com, which also publishes about 75 percent of the obituaries in North America each year through its newspaper affiliations.

Some other popular sites to check out are ForeverMissed.com, iLasting.com, LifeStory.com and iMorial.com..

Circuit Clerk completes training

Casey County Circuit Court Clerk Craig Overstreet participated in the 2014 Circuit Court Clerks Spring College May 14-16 in Lexington. The Administrative Office of the Courts provided the judicial education program for the state's circuit court clerks.

The circuit court clerks attended courses on the expungement process, court technology, working with the media, bookkeeping and disaster preparation. They also heard from motivational speaker Jeff Eger on leadership, community involvement and relationships with the public and other government officials.

The college covered driver licensing and included sessions on the graduated driver license program, state traffic school, new federal laws for issuing commercial driver licenses, procedures after a driver is deceased and security practices for driver licensing offices.

Circuit court clerks had the opportunity to attend courses about the legal rights and responsibilities of the Office of Circuit Court Clerk and best practices in hiring individuals to work in their offices. They also received an overview of court-related legislation passed during the 2014 General Assembly session and got an update from the Trust for Life program from AOC Director Laurie K. Dudgeon.

■ BOARD OF EDUCATION

School board adopts calendar for 2014-15

Certified personnel polled about upcoming school year

By Larry Rowell
Editor

The Casey County Board of Education has adopted the 2014-15 school calendar, based on teachers' preferences and input from parents.

Meeting on June 9, board members heard Superintendent Marion Sowders say that 197 certified personnel were polled, with 167 responding, and given two options as to the upcoming school year.

Option one included 32 early release Fridays beginning at 1 p.m. while option two included five full staff work days throughout the year along with four personnel development days, which is basically one full staff work day each month. Students will be out of school during the five staff days.

Sowders cited two advantages to having the five staff days instead of early release Fridays.

"I received lots of concerns from the community about child care issues, releasing them every Friday. Parents can make arrangements for the five days now instead of having to do it every Friday," he said.

Additionally, Sowders said that staff days have been placed after assessment days in order for teachers to analyze the data and plan accordingly to deal with the results.

Another advantage the superintendent cited was fuel savings over the five days students will not be in class.

"On early release days, you still have to run morning and evening routes, using the same amount of fuel you would use all those days. Take five full days out and you're saving transportation to and from school," he said.

Classified staff, such as bus drivers and cafeteria personnel, affected by those five days would still work, but in training sessions.

In the new calendar, classes for students begin on Aug. 7 with the last day of class for students set for May 21.

Fall break is scheduled from Oct. 6-10, Thanksgiving break from Nov. 26-28, Christmas break from Dec. 22-Jan. 2, with students returning to classes on Tuesday, Jan. 6. Spring break is tentatively set for April 6-10. Tentative because of possibly having to make up days lost to hazardous winter weather.

As it's traditional for students to be out of school the Friday of Apple Festival, there will be no class on Sept. 26.

In other business, the board:

■ Heard Sowders say that overall attendance for the district for the 2013-14 school year was 95.47, the highest rate dating back to 1996. Liberty Elementary School recorded the highest attendance rate, finishing the year at 96.97 percent. Casey County High School posted the lowest attendance rate for the school year at 93.89 percent.

■ Heard Sowders recommend the salary schedule for substitute teachers for the 2014-15 school year. A Rank I sub will earn $91 a day, a Rank II $86, and Rank III subs will receive $83 a day. Emergency subs with 64 or more college hours will get $75 while an emergency sub with up to 64 hours will be paid $72 a day.

■ Heard Sowders give the following employment report.

Billy Hatter and Michael Coffman, grounds workers; Cheryl Wilson, janitor with 15 additional summer hours.

Brent Bernard will be employed for 60 hours at $20 an hour. Jimmy Arnold will receive a $1,059 stipend and Angel Stephens was employed as a district-wide FMD teacher.

Judy Phillips, Faith Shackelford, and student Jeffrey Pendleton, Migrant Education Program staff.

At Casey County High School, Jennifer Luttrell, cook; while Todd Claunch will be the head girls' basketball coach.

At Jones Park and Walnut Hill Elementary schools, Lisa Ware, Read to Achieve Teacher.

Judy Phillips, assistant principal at WHE.

Sowders also accepted the following resignations: Susan Stringer as CCHS cheer coach, Matt Wiloughby as CCHS head track and field coach, Donna Cooper, WHE teacher; Todd Carman, CCMS girls' basketball coach; James Arthur, assistant cross country coach; Jody Clements, substitute teacher; Billy Hatter, Michael Coffman and Roger Durham, bus drivers; Ricky Buck, WHE janitor; Randy Salyers, CCHS teacher; and Linda Floyd, education evaluator.

■ Heard Deena Randolph, director of district-wide services say that the district's total cash is $7.9 million with a general fund balance of $4.2 million.

"We couldn't have done this without the whole team."

Mark Franklin is a walking miracle.

Last February, after suffering with severe headaches for several weeks, Mark sought relief at his local hospital emergency room. He was quickly transferred to Lake Cumberland Regional Hospital.

Mark had a brain aneurysm. Just days before, he was an active owner of his own carpentry and home repair business. "He could do anything," his wife, Melissa, said.

Mark spent 67 days in the Neuro ICU and the inpatient Rehab Unit at Lake Cumberland Regional Hospital. After a very complicated surgery, a massive stroke, a seizure, and multiple blood clots in his legs, things looked very bleak.

Unable to walk, stand, sit, feed himself, or even speak, Mark began his long, slow journey toward recovery. Melissa described Mark as a determined man. That grit and hard work paid off as his therapists worked diligently with him each day.

"We couldn't have done this without the whole team (at Lake Cumberland Regional Hospital)," Melissa said. "They all worked together – not just to help him and meet his needs, but to help me, too. They were so encouraging."

The Franklins will tell you they were blessed with great family and prayer support and are also grateful for the expertise of Dr. Amr El-Naggar, neurosurgeon, and Dr. P.D. Patel, neurologist.

Recently, Mark and Melissa, came back to the hospital to visit with their friends - Mark's physical, occupational, and speech therapists and his nurses. "I miss all of them," Melissa said. "I just love all these people and hate being so far away from them."

Always the encourager, Melissa advised others with similar experiences to not give up. "These people will help you do it!" She added, "If we have anything else – ever - this is where I want to be!"

On April 14, defying all odds . . . Mark walked out of the LCRH Rehab Unit. He and Melissa were going home.

Staat's Bakery features bread, specialty items

By Larry Rowell

For those familiar with gourmet granola and specialty breads, or if someone's looking for that unique gift, then a visit to Staat's Bakery is in order.

Opened this week, Blaine and Catherine Staat remodeled the quaint home at 58 Beldon Avenue to market his tasty home made granola and breads, along with local and regional items.

A popular granola on sale has dried cranberries and pecans.

Using only minimal ingredients in the breads including basic flour with no additives, the bakery will offer white, whole wheat, Italian, and French breads.

"We are also selling Weisenberger's true form flour that's ground in Midway from local wheat and without additives," said Catherine.

In addition, the shop will feature crafts from local artisans such as dolls made by Yolantha Harrison Pace, a renowned Kentucky artist and craftsman.

Ale 8, a popular soda pop made in Kentucky, is also offered for sale in the shop.

One unusual item offered to gardeners who want the best fertilizer for their gardens and house plants is alpaca beans, on sale in the retail side of the shop.

"We will have Alpaca yarn as well as Alpaca beans (manure) that comes from Barnett's Creek Farm here in Casey County," Catherine said.

For the time being, bakery items are for carry-out only but future plans call for having coffee, healthy smoothies, and other nutritional beverages.

"We hope to sell local meats, eggs, and non-verified organic cheeses. We just want to help promote our local businesses," she said.

Owners' great-granddaughter the inspiration for Kaleigha's

By Abigail Whitehouse
Staff Writer

Good food, good prices, and a great atmosphere are just a few things Bill and Roswitha Callinan, owners of Kaleigha's Country Dining, said that their restaurant has to offer.

"There aren't a lot of places like it," Bill said. "You don't have the rush of cars, traffic and horns honking out here. You can sit in the quiet countryside and enjoy your meal in peace."

Nestled quietly on South Fork Creek Road at the former Wagon Trail location, Kaleigha's offers a laid back environment where family and friends can sit outside, enjoy their meal, and watch the horse and buggies trotting down the road.

Kaleigha, Bill and Roswitha's 2-year-old great-granddaughter, is the inspiration behind the newly opened restaurant.

The Callinans had planned for an early retirement but after gaining custody of Kaleigha, they realized that Kaleigha's future was in their hands and they wanted to do as much as they could for her and her education.

"We're not getting any younger," Callinan said, "and my wife really wanted to get back in the restaurant business."

Roswitha has suffered from a heart attack, open heart surgery, and kidney cancer. When she told Bill she wanted to get back in the business, he was skeptical, but he realized it was what she wanted and it was the best way to insure Kaleigha's future.

"This is my baby," Roswitha said.

All meals at Kaleigha's Country Dining are cooked to order. While waiting for your fresh meal, you can partake in a game of horseshoes or enjoy the scenic environment around you.

The hand-dipped ice cream at Kaleigha's is a huge hit, especially among the kids ages 10 and under, who get an ice cream cone free of charge.

"Kaleigha likes to lead the neighbor kids over to get their free ice cream," Callinan said.

According to Callinan, his favorite dish at Kaleigha's is the club sandwich, paired with a large chocolate milk shake.

"It's worth dying for," he said. "I've probably gained 10 pounds in the last three weeks because I've had a club sandwich and a chocolate shake every day since we opened."

Callinan is not the only fan of Kaleigha's chocolate flavors. Rosey Vaught, who helps her mother Roswitha in the kitchen, also loves it.

"It's been so hot, all I've wanted to eat is chocolate ice cream," Vaught said laughing.

With big burger buns and meat hanging over the edges, Callinan said you'll have no trouble filling up at Kaleigha's Country Dining.

"We've got big five-inch burger buns," Callinan said, "and you don't have to look for the meat."

Along with sandwiches, salads, and alternating daily specials, Kaleigha's Country Dining offers Catfish Fridays, a weekly special consisting of catfish, fries, hushpuppies, and coleslaw.

Sherilyn Smith, of Liberty, helps out in the kitchen and said the catfish dinner is by far her favorite meal.

"It's it's Friday and they have catfish, that's what I'm eating," Smith said.

Callinan said there are quite a few catfish eaters in Casey County.

"It certainly is a favorite so far," he said.

Kaleigha's Country Dining is located at 725 South Fork Creek Road and is open Tuesday through Saturday 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. and on Sundays from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Kaleigha's offers dine in or take out meals and can be reached at 606-787-6420.

Scott family favorites and more served up at Simply Delicious

By Abigail Whitehouse
Staff Writer

For under $7, you can buy italian beef sirloin, slow-cooked in au jus with peppers and cheese, between two big pieces of french bread, alongside an eight-ounce bowl of homemade pasta salad and a drink to wash it all down.

That is what Lou Scott and her daughter, Erica Scott, of Liberty, said their business, Simply Delicious, can guarantee.

According to Lou, the italian beef sirloin is a Scott family favorite and a very popular choice with patrons.

"It's our biggest seller," Scott said.

Another crowd favorite at Simply Delicious is the homemade meatball sub, which comes on the same french bread, made from scratch.

"Our focus is to provide healthy, affordable meals for everyone," Scott said. "We don't cook any fried foods here for that reason."

For a little over three years, Simply Delicious has been catering to various businesses and community functions across Liberty.

"We do quite a bit of catering," Scott said, "We actually cater to about 80 people daily."

Italian sirloin and meatballs are not the only popular dishes at Simply Delicious. The homemade chicken salad is another big seller, Scott said.

"We slow cook the chicken and add grapes and almonds," Scott said.

A few other meal choices include a variety of salad options, like the cranberry and walnut salad, or the basic chef and side salads. The salad sizes vary from big, half, and side.

Simply Delicious also offers freshly baked croissants, homemade pimento cheese, and tuna salad, turkey club sandwiches and a daily soup.

"We try to have five or six fresh baked goods each day," Scott said. "In the fall, we will have more special daily soups like creamy tomato basil."

After moving to their new location on North Wallace Wilkinson Blvd. (former Kathy's Flowers) in February, Simply Delicious opened their cafe to the public Monday through Friday from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

The Scotts have plans to extend both the menu and the store hours in the fall, once they are finished catering to 300 or more people at Erica's wedding in August.

"After Erica gets married our goal is to offer breakfast as well, such as belgium waffles and bacon-egg-cheese croissants," Scott said.

Erica Scott said she is a big fan of the barbecue pulled pork baked potato.

"I know it sounds weird," she said, "but it is so amazing."

For now, Simply Delicious is offering catering and take-out only, but the Scotts hope to offer dine-in sitting in the future. For catering and take-out information call (606) 787-4816.

ALUMNI SPOTLIGHT

Price flying high as women's head coach at Asbury

By Rita "Peat" Harris
Sports Correspondent

If you have never been a fan of Asbury University athletics, now may be the time to start. Former Rebel and Casey County native Jason Price was named the head coach of the Asbury University Lady Eagles women's basketball program. Price, a 1996 graduate of Casey County High School, played for the Rebels from 1992-1996.

"Jason is a perfect fit for us institutionally," said Mark Perdue, athletic director. "He brings a passion for the game of basketball, for mentoring young student-athletes, and for the Lord."

Price fills the spot of Bart Flenor who coached at the university for six seasons. Flenor helped the Lady Eagles achieve back-to-back 20-win seasons, the only two in the history of the program.

"Bart had a lot of success while he was here and has taken the program in the right direction," Price said.

"I'm looking forward to building on that, but, more importantly, I want to be sure we always keep in mind that faith comes first, academics second and basketball third, but remembering, too, that we'd like to do all three with excellence."

Casey County High School alumnus Jason Price was recently named head basketball coach for the Asbury University Lady Eagles basketball team.

Price has not only coached alongside Flenor, but also with the Asbury men's coach Will Shouse. In addition to his coaching experience at the school, Price is a decorated alumnus of the basketball program.

From 1996-2000, Price put up 2,865 points for the Eagles and led the NAIA in scoring with 985 points his senior season, averaging 25.8 points per game. As of 2006, he is a member of the Asbury Hall of Fame.

Price had a successful CCHS career as well. As a freshman he traveled to the KHSAA Sweet Sixteen state tournament with the 1993 12th Region championship team.

He went on to lead his team in scoring, putting up over 20 points per game both his junior and senior years, averaging 22.4 in his senior year. He remains Casey's second all-time leading scorer with 1,520 career points. As a senior, he was the Advocate Messenger Player of the Year and he was also honorable mention all-state.

Despite his success at both the college and high school levels, Price set out on a career path far from basketball. He studied biology at Asbury and went into pharmaceutical sales after graduating. In 2005 he began as the men's assistant under his former coach where he remained until 2008.

"I never saw myself pursuing coaching," Price said. "I had never applied for a head coaching job. I had a different career path sticking in the healthcare realm. But that's always been my passion. Being close to Asbury, I've been around the program a lot even when I wasn't coaching. When I had the opportunity to get back to Asbury I was excited. I started changing my thought process (for my career path)."

With Price taking on the women's head position, the men's assistant position became open. If one CCHS alumnus at Asbury was not enough, 2004 graduate Russell Abner will be filling Price's former position. Abner played basketball for the Rebels from 2000-2004.

"The people he's going to be working with are great," Price said. "We actually spent this afternoon in the gym together."

SPORTS TALK

Don't wait to kick at the end — give 100 percent all the time

All I could think of as the final seconds of the USA-Portugal game fell away on Sunday evening was a lesson I learned in sports a long time ago: You can't wait to kick.

I'm not referring to kicking a soccer ball, actually. Those are kind of "runner's terms" but the same idea can be applied to all sports. In my world of running, though, it referred to the end of the race. If I'd run well, by the end I was tired. Often times that "kick" at the end, when you felt like you were sprinting, was actually hardly a trudge across the finish line, but the idea was to use absolutely all you had left.

The lesson I learned was that you had to kick—100 percent—regardless of whether you thought you had competition hot on your heels or not. I had to learn that the hard way at Casey County's own home invitational one year, the Double A Derby, when I was spent at the end of my 800-meter run, gunning for first place. While on some level I thought I had turned on all gears, I was proven wrong when an opponent was suddenly moving up beside me. As soon as I was aware of her presence I realized I had to give it more—meaning I was not truly kicking to begin with. The problem with this, I learned, was my acceleration was spent. While this opponent was running at all cylinders and powering through the end, it took me a solid three to five steps to really turn my kick on to what it should have been the entire time. However, those steps were too many and the opponent pulled ahead and I finished second.

The thing was, I knew I could have and would have beaten the opponent had I actually been given my 100 percent kick from the get go, but I had not and, because I let myself lose site of staying perfectly focused through the end, I had been beaten. Honestly, I think part of my opponent's ability to catch and beat me was recognizing that I was not giving it all.

The truth is a 100 percent kick at the end is not always going to mean you won't get passed, but it does guarantee that you won't find yourself doing a double take and regretting your finish. I never forgot that race or that lesson for the rest of my racing career. I tried to always imagine the pitter patter of footsteps and heavy breathing just over my shoulder as I finished, even if I was racing alone or simply practicing.

Watching our men's soccer team let go of what would have been a guaranteed advancement to the World Cup Round of 16 made me cringe. They have brought us so many surprises and great play in the World Cup so far. There they were beating Portugal, one of the tournament's top ranked teams. They were seconds away from not only securing their spot but also finalizing Portugal's fate not to advance.

The fact Portugal tied it, 2-2, in the last 30 seconds was a bummer enough, but how it happened was the disappointment. Several of the USA players near the goal and ball when it was passed then kicked in seemed completely lost from what they should have been doing. Even the goalie, Tim Howard, who had been on top of his game throughout and had amazing saves, was completely delayed in attempting to block the goal. All I could think was that those players had already moved to the finish line. They thought they were still going and giving it their full focus, but only in retrospect—as the runner accelerated past them—did they realize they were not, but by then it was too late.

USA still has a shot at making it out of the pool, but Germany will be anything but an easy opponent, also being a top ranked team. Either way I'm proud of the American's—especially their victory over Ghana—and there is no reason to dwell on what's done. But a reminder to all the athletes out there... the worst feeling in the world is to finish with regret. Never lose focus until the final seconds have fallen off the clock. Give it your all until the finish line is crossed.

Donation will improve habitat

A generous donation of two pieces of equipment from the League of Kentucky Sportsmen to the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources will produce better upland and small game hunting in the future.

The League of Kentucky Sportsmen donated $142,000 for two front-end loaders equipped with tree shears for improving habitat for species such as grouse.

"The League of Kentucky Sportsmen always has been focused on wildlife conservation and the development of habitat," said Mark Nethery, immediate past president of the League of Kentucky Sportsmen. "This seemed a natural progression."

The shears allow for cutting smaller trees to create open spaces in forested habitat. This benefits upland species such as grouse and quail, as well as small game species such as cottontail rabbits.

"This generous donation from the League of Kentucky Sportsmen will enable us to greatly enhance our forest management activities," said Karen Waldrop, director of wildlife for Kentucky Fish and Wildlife. "This equipment will improve grouse habitat and other wildlife habitat across the state."

The League of Kentucky Sportsmen presented a check to the Kentucky Fish and Wildlife Commission at its quarterly meeting earlier this month.

"We see this donation further solidifying the relationship between the League of Kentucky Sportsmen and the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources," Nethery said. "The wildlife and sportsmen of Kentucky are the beneficiaries of this continuing relationship."

The Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources manages, regulates, enforces and promotes responsible use of all fish and wildlife species, their habitats, public wildlife areas and waterways for the benefit of those resources and for public enjoyment. The Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources is an agency of the Tourism, Arts and Heritage Cabinet. For more information on Kentucky Fish and Wildlife, visit our website at fw.ky.gov.

Water - Essential for Life

We get water from 5 different sources, the City of Liberty, who draws water from Lake Liberty. The City of Russell Springs who gets water from Lake Cumberland processed by the City of Jamestown. The City of Campbellsville who draws water from Green River Lake. The Adair Co. Water District who draws water from Green River Lake. And a very small amount of water is purchased from the City of Eubank to supply customers in the Grove ridge area Eubank water comes from Lake Cumberland via the City of Somerset. The greatest concern to source water contamination is the bridges and roadways surrounding the impoundments where our water comes from. The potential for contamination through accidental spills due to transportation accidents could have an immediate affect on source water quality. A full copy of the susceptibility assessment may be viewed at the Lake Cumberland Area Development office in Russell Springs, KY.

Drinking water, including bottled water, may reasonably be expected to contain at least small amounts of some contaminants. The presence of contaminants does not necessarily indicate that water poses a health risk. More information about contaminants and potential health effects may be obtained by calling the Environmental Protection Agency's Safe Drinking Water Hotline (800-426-4791).

The sources of drinking water (both tap water and bottled water) include rivers, lakes, streams, ponds, reservoirs, springs, and wells. As water travels over the surface of the land or through the ground, it dissolves naturally occurring minerals and, in some cases, radioactive material, and may pick up substances resulting from the presence of animals or from human activity. Contaminants that may be present in source water include: Microbial contaminants, such as viruses and bacteria, (sewage plants, septic systems, livestock operations, or wildlife). Inorganic contaminants, such as salts and metals, (naturally occurring or from stormwater runoff, wastewater discharges, oil and gas production, mining, or farming). Pesticides and herbicides, (stormwater runoff, agriculture or residential uses). Organic chemical contaminants, including synthetic and volatile organic chemicals, (by-products of industrial processes and petroleum production, or from gas stations, stormwater runoff, or septic systems). Radioactive contaminants, (naturally occurring or from oil and gas production or mining activities).

In order to ensure that tap water is safe to drink, EPA prescribes regulations that limit the amount of certain contaminants in water provided by public water systems. FDA regulations establish limits for contaminants in bottled water to provide the same protection for public health.

Some people may be more vulnerable to contaminants in drinking water than the general population. Immuno-compromised persons such as persons with cancer undergoing chemotherapy, persons who have undergone organ transplants, people with HIV/AIDS or other immune system disorders, some elderly, and infants can be particularly at risk from infections. These people should seek advice about drinking water from their health care providers. EPA/CDC guidelines on appropriate means to lessen the risk of infection by Cryptosporidium and other microbial contaminants are available from the Safe Drinking Water Hotline (800-426-4791).

Some or all of these definitions may be found in this report:

Maximum Contaminant Level (MCL) - the highest level of a contaminant that is allowed in drinking water. MCLs are set as close to the MCLGs as feasible using the best available treatment technology.

Maximum Contaminant Level Goal (MCLG) - the level of a contaminant in drinking water below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MCLGs allow for a margin of safety.

Maximum Residual Disinfectant Level (MRDL) - the highest level of a disinfectant allowed in drinking water. There is convincing evidence that addition of a disinfectant is necessary for control of microbial contaminants.

Maximum Residual Disinfectant Level Goal (MRDLG) - the level of a drinking water disinfectant below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MRDLGs do not reflect the benefits of the use of disinfectants to control microbial contaminants.

Below Detection Levels (BDL) - laboratory analysis indicates that the contaminant is not present.

Not Applicable (N/A) - does not apply.

Parts per million (ppm) - or milligrams per liter, (mg/L). One part per million corresponds to one minute in two years or a single penny in $10,000.

Parts per billion (ppb) - or micrograms per liter, (µg/L). One part per billion corresponds to one minute in 2,000 years, or a single penny in $10,000,000.

Parts per trillion (ppt) - one part per trillion corresponds to one minute in 2,000,000 years, or a single penny in $10,000,000,000.

Parts per quadrillion (ppq) - one part per quadrillion corresponds to one minute in 2,000,000,000 years or one penny in $10,000,000,000,000.

Picocuries per liter (pCi/L) - a measure of the radioactivity in water.

Millirems per year (mrem/yr) - a measure of radiation absorbed by the body.

Million Fibers per Liter (MFL) - a measure of the presence of asbestos fibers that are longer than 10 micrometers.

Nephelometric Turbidity Unit (NTU) - a measure of the clarity of water. Turbidity has no health effects. However, turbidity can provide a medium for microbial growth. Turbidity is monitored because it is a good indicator of the effectiveness of the filtration system.

Variances & Exemptions (V&E) - State or EPA permission not to meet an MCL or a treatment technique under certain conditions.

Action Level (AL) - the concentration of a contaminant which, if exceeded, triggers treatment or other requirements that a water system shall follow.

Treatment Technique (TT) - a required process intended to reduce the level of a contaminant in drinking water.

The data presented in this report are from the most recent testing done in accordance with administrative regulations in 401 KAR Chapter 8. As authorized and approved by EPA, the State has reduced monitoring requirements for certain contaminants to less often than once per year because the concentrations of these contaminants are not expected to vary significantly from year to year. Some of the data in this table, though representative, may be more than one year old. Unless otherwise noted, the report level is the highest level detected.

The City of Liberty received a notice of violation for exceeding the MCL in reference to the Haloacetic Acids in 2nd and 3rd Quarter of 2013. The value's reported for Haloacetic Acids were 63 ppb in the second quarter and 67 ppb in the third quarter with the Annual Running average of 67 ppb which exceeds the maximum contaminant limitation set by the federal EPA standard of 60 ppb. In an effort to resolve this issue numerous operational procedures are being attempted including, but not limited to, reducing disinfection to the lowest level possible without compromising health and safety, increasing the addition of activated carbon, adjust the tank levels, more frequent flushing to solve the problem. Haloacetic Acids-Some people who drink water containing haloacetic acids in excess of the MCL over many years may have an increased risk of getting cancer.

Our water system violated one or more drinking water standards over the past year. Even though these were not emergencies, as our customers, you have a right to know what happened and what we did to correct these situations.

We are required to monitor your drinking water for specific contaminants on a regular basis. Results of regular monitoring are an indicator of whether or not our drinking water meets health standards. During 1/1/2011-12-31/2013 we did not complete all monitoring or testing for Asbestos and during 10/01/2013-12/31/2013 we did not complete all monitoring or testings for DBPS TTHM THAA and therefore cannot be sure of the quality of our drinking water during that time.

There is nothing you need to do at this time. You do not need to use an alternative (e.g., bottled) water supply.

The table below lists the contaminant(s) we did not properly test for during the last year, how often we are supposed to sample for this contaminant and how many samples we are supposed to take, how many samples we took, when samples should have been taken, and the date on which follow-up samples were (or will be) taken.

| contaminant | required sampling frequency | number of samples taken | samples should have been taken | when samples were or will be taken |
|-------------|-----------------------------|-------------------------|--------------------------------|------------------------------------|
| Asbestos | 1 every nine years | 0 | 0 | Waiver |

| DBPS TTHM THAA | Quarterly | Quarterly | Quarterly | already took |
|----------------|-----------|-----------|-----------|--------------|

What happened? Who is at risk? What is being done?

Asbestos. We are not required to test for Asbestos. We received a waiver from DOW stating this. There is no one at risk from this violation. DBPS TTHM THAA. The required samples were taken but the locations codes were incorrect. We changed the codes and resubmitted and were cleared by the division of water. There is no one at risk from this violation.

Please share this information with all the other people who drink this water, especially those who may not have received this notice directly (for example, people in apartments, nursing homes, schools, and businesses). You can do this by posting this notice in a public place or distributing copies by hand or mail.

This report is designed to inform the public about the quality of water and services provided on a daily basis. Our commitment is to provide our customers with a safe, clean, and reliable supply of drinking water. We want to assure that we will continue to monitor, improve, and protect the water system and deliver a high quality product. Water is the most indispensable product in every home and we ask everyone to be conservative and help us in our efforts to protect the water source and the water system.

Liberty Water Works's source is surface water from Lake Liberty, which is an 80 acre lake that is approximately 45 feet deep. The water is treated at the Liberty Water Treatment Plant. Our source water assessment plan has been completed and is available for inspection at the Lake Cumberland Area Development District. An analysis of the susceptibility of the Liberty Water Works water supply to contamination indicates that this susceptibility is low. Within the critical protection area there are two potential sources of contamination that are ranked high, five medium, and none ranked as low. The highest concern is a closed Superfund site known as Hidden Valley; the potential contamination sources are areas with exposed bare rock and soil. The remaining five listed sources are all ranked as posing a medium level threat to the drinking water source. These potential contamination sources consist of hay fields, forest, and pastureland, KY Route 1649, and power line rights-of-way. The location of the Lake Liberty water intake and remote area of the watershed make the routine non-point contaminant sources of low concern. The only serious potential source for this water system is the closed Hidden Valley Superfund site.

Drinking water, including bottled water, may reasonably be expected to contain at least small amounts of some contaminants. The presence of contaminants does not necessarily indicate that water poses a health risk. More information about contaminants and potential health effects may be obtained by calling the Environmental Protection Agency's Safe Drinking Water Hotline (800-426-4791).

The sources of drinking water (both tap water and bottled water) include rivers, lakes, streams, ponds, reservoirs, springs, and wells. As water travels over the surface of the land or through the ground, it dissolves naturally occurring minerals and, in some cases, radioactive material, and may pick up substances resulting from the presence of animals or from human activity. Contaminants that may be present in source water include: Microbial contaminants, such as viruses and bacteria, (sewage plants, septic systems, livestock operations, or wildlife). Inorganic contaminants, such as salts and metals, (naturally occurring or from stormwater runoff, wastewater discharges, oil and gas production, mining, or farming). Pesticides and herbicides, (stormwater runoff, agriculture or residential uses). Organic chemical contaminants, including synthetic and volatile organic chemicals, (by-products of industrial processes and petroleum production, or from gas stations, stormwater runoff, or septic systems). Radioactive contaminants, (naturally occurring or from oil and gas production or mining activities).

In order to ensure that tap water is safe to drink, EPA prescribes regulations that limit the amount of certain contaminants in water provided by public water systems. FDA regulations establish limits for contaminants in bottled water to provide the same protection for public health.

Some people may be more vulnerable to contaminants in drinking water than the general population. EPA has not established drinking water standards for unregulated contaminants. There are no MCL's and therefore no violations if found.

We received a notice of violation for exceeding the MCL in reference to the Haloacetic Acids in 2nd and 3rd Quarter of 2013. The value's reported for Haloacetic Acids were 63 ppb in the second quarter and 67 ppb in the third quarter with the Annual Running average of 67 ppb which exceeds the maximum contaminant limitation set by the federal EPA standard of 60 ppb. In an effort to resolve this issue numerous operational procedures are being attempted including, but not limited to, reducing disinfection to the lowest level possible without compromising health and safety, increasing the addition of activated carbon, adjust the tank levels, more frequent flushing to solve the problem. Haloacetic Acids-Some people who drink water containing haloacetic acids in excess of the MCL over many years may have an increased risk of getting cancer.

We received a notice of violation for failing to submit the CCR before the July 1, 2013 deadline. We have since submitted it on October 11, 2013 and will send the CCR in a timely manner in the future. There are no health effects with this violation.

Our water system violated one or more drinking water standards over the past year. Even though these were not emergencies, as our customers, you have a right to know what happened and what we did to correct these situations.

We are required to monitor your drinking water for specific contaminants on a regular basis. Results of regular monitoring are an indicator of whether or not our drinking water meets health standards. During 6/1/2013-6/30/2013 we did not complete all monitoring or testing for chlorine, IESWTR, Monthly Operating Report and therefore cannot be sure of the quality of our drinking water during that time.

There is nothing you need to do at this time. You do not need to use an alternative (e.g., bottled) water supply.

The table below lists the contaminant(s) we did not properly test for during the last year, how often we are supposed to sample for this contaminant(s) and how many samples we are supposed to take, how many samples we took, when samples should have been taken, and the date on which follow-up samples were (or will be) taken.

Indicted

Other indictments include:

■ Christopher T. Johnson is charged with theft by unlawful taking, firearm. On July 21, 2013, Johnson took a Steven .410 shotgun belonging to Amy Gadberry.

■ Jeanette L. Wesley is accused of receiving stolen property under $10,000 when she had in her possession storage containers containing stolen items with an approximate value of $1,000.

■ Jamie Carroll Tillett faces three counts which include theft by unlawful taking $500 or more but less than $10,000, third-degree criminal trespass, second-degree fleeing or evading police on foot, and being a persistent felony offender. Court records state that
